SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT - Earl Kennel GCSAA

Topdressing #3 with sand

As we head into the middle of fall, we are continuing our process to improve the playing conditions of our course. During our recent aeration, we bombarded the weak spots in our greens with bentgrass seed in order to take advantage of its ability to deal with salts and drier soils. You'll no doubt notice the bentgrass begin to pronounce itself as we continue to tailor our fertilizer program to its benefit. The goal is to slowly increase the percentage of bentgrass to help us through the long summers.

Recently we topdressed approaches and are taking this idea to fairways. If you look closely at the 3rd fairway you will see sand we have applied. Over time, topdressing the fairways will build a sandier cap over the current soil composition, enhancing winter playability, drainage characteristics and a reduction in cart path only days. We will eventually work our way through the course, starting with the fairways that need it most.

As mentioned in our previous communication, we are continuing to audit and improve the operation of our near 2000 sprinkler head inventory on the course and at the clubhouse. It's a long process that includes reprogramming our central computer, mainline pressure optimization, and visually inspecting each sprinkler run. We're starting to make headway as you see less wet and dry areas on the course, particularly near the green complexes.
